PUBLISHED RECORDS

A SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY OF PUBLICATIONS CONTAINING GENEALOGY AND FAMILY HISTORY, PEDIGREES, FAMILY NOTES, BIOGRAPHY, AND MATERIALS FOR COMPILING GENEALOGY

CHAPTER I

BOOKS OF COMPILED FAMILY HISTORY AND GENEALOGY

(With a locating key)

The following bibliography has been compiled from many sources in Ireland. The accession lists of published genealogy and family history in the larger libraries have been copied and the collections examined in the smaller repositories. In the course of the work, this compiler has visited, repeatedly, the National Library of Ireland and the Genealogical Office in Dublin; the County Library, the City Library and the University Library in Cork; the Public Library in Waterford; the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland; the Linen Hall Library, and the Presbyterian Historical Society in Belfast; the Magee University College Library in Londonderry; and other County and Public Libraries. This compiler has also repeatedly searched many book shops in Ireland and, since 1951, has received the current sales catalogues from the Hodges Figgis Book Shop in Dublin and from the Cathedral Book Shop in Belfast. Thus, many books recorded in this bibliography have been listed for sale since 1951.

A family history or genealogy is most often found in a library located in the general area where the subject family or the compiler lived. Accordingly, the three libraries in Cork have the more complete collection of published works regarding the families which have resided in the south of Ireland, while the libraries in Belfast, Armagh, Londonderry, etc., have the larger Ulster collections. The Dublin libraries have the oldest, most complete and extensive deposits.

Anyone interested in purchasing books listed in this bibliography should write to the Hodges Figgis Book Shop, 6 Dawson Street, Dublin, or to the Cathedral Book Shop (Mr. Hugh Greer), 18 Gresham Street, Belfast, and request a catalogue, or make inquiry about the book desired. If a desired book is not available, one may ask to be put on a waiting list and notified when the requested book comes in to the shop. If one wishes a book of an early publication date, it is probably best to send a fee to have the book shop advertise for it. This compiler has resorted to advertising in some cases and, after requesting a particular book, has often been on a waiting list for more than a year.

Probably the largest collections in America of published Irish family histories and genealogies are in the American Irish Historical Society, New York City; the New York Public Library; the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C.; and in the Genealogical Society of Utah, Salt Lake City.

To aid in locating the books listed in this chapter, a key letter has been assigned to each of the four principal places where the volumes may be located. This key letter, in parenthesis, will be shown opposite the title of the book, where applicable.

(A) The National Library of Ireland, Kildare Street, Dublin.

(B) The Linen Hall Library, Donegall Square North, Belfast.

(C) Hodges Figgis & Company, Ltd. (Book Shop), 6 Dawson Street, Dublin.

(D) The Cathedral Book Shop (Mr. Hugh Greer), 18 Gresham Street, Belfast.

CHAPTER IV

RECOMMENDED HISTORICAL AND GENEALOGICAL PERIODICALS

There are several important historical societies of county, regional, and national scope which publish journals or periodicals, usually semi-annually. The primary purpose of these societies is to encourage research of a historical, archaeological or genealogical nature, for the common benefit of the members. The results of this research have been compiled in historical accounts of antiquities and in collections of records of a character to preserve the history of families and persons belonging therein. These have been richly documented from primary sources. The genealogical work ranges in scope from full pedigrees of several generations, genealogical charts, family notes or biographies, to miscellaneous records such as transcripts or abstracts of wills, marriage bonds, entries of baptism, marriage and burial from parish registers, tombstone inscriptions, descriptions and records of armorial sculptured tombstones, abstracts of deeds, lists of local inhabitants at a given date, lists of taxpayers, public office holders, freemen's rolls, and much other material of use in compiling genealogy.

Before listing these periodicals, attention should be called to one recommended to this compiler by Dr. Richard J. Hayes, Director of the National Library of Ireland, entitled Irish Historical Studies. This is a joint journal of the Irish Historical Society and the Ulster Society for Irish Historical Studies. Publication was begun in March, 1938, and issues have appeared in March and September of each following year. It presents the well-documented work of scholars on many subjects of importance to historians and genealogists. Approximately fifty pages of each issue are devoted to reviews of all Irish historical and genealogical publications of the previous year which are thought to be worthy of note. Highly qualified persons contribute the critical and analytical book reviews, and note the articles of importance. Thus, the reviews constitute a selected bibliography and critical description of the newly published historical and genealogical works of Irish interest. Some American libraries have complete files of this periodical.

Special attention should also be given to the Journal of the Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland. Publication of this Journal began in 1849, and has continued in an uninterrupted series to date, representing the oldest historical society in Ireland. While the Society has undergone various changes of name, the Journal has been preserved as a continuous publication. The great historians, antiquarians and genealogists of Ireland have, for over a century, been among the elected fellows and members of this Society. They, with their interests and contributions to this Journal, have maintained its excellence. The reviews of current publications of Irish interest which appear in each issue have long set the standard of critical analysis in the field of Irish history, archaeology and genealogy. They provide a running annotated bibliography of great value to the student.

Each publication listed below has its specialized value according to the area and interests represented. Complete files of all are preserved in the National Library of Ireland. Local historical societies, county and public libraries, have the publications which represent their own area. The best known and most widely distributed journals will be found in the large genealogical libraries of America.

The National Library of Ireland now maintains a card index, by name and subject, for all except the Journal of the Cork Historical and Archaeological Society, the Journal of the Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland, and the Ulster Journal of Archaeology. Indexes to these three periodicals have been published by the respective societies. The index cards for the other journals and periodicals have been microfilmed by the National Library, under the direction of Dr. Hayes.

* * * * *

ANALECTA HIBERNICA. A journal which, since 1930, has been published from time to time by the Irish Manuscripts Commission. Various documents and indexes of a historical and genealogical nature have been printed, such as the INDEX OF WILL ABSTRACTS IN THE GENEALOGICAL OFFICE, Dublin (Analecta Hibernica, No. 17, 1949). This and other items which appear are judged by the Commission to be valuable, but too short in length for publication in a separate volume.

ARCHIVIUM HIBERNICUM or IRISH HISTORICAL RECORDS. The Catholic Record Society of Ireland was established in 1911 for the publication of Irish historical documents. Many important documents, mainly Catholic, have been printed. The first journal was issued in 1912; it was published annually thereafter until 1917. In 1922, vol. 7 was issued, and vol. 8 did not appear until 1941. Vol. 8 contains A RENT ROLL OF ALL HOUSES AND LANDS BELONGING TO THE SEE OF ARMAGH (ca. 1620), compiled by Lawrence P. Murray, from records in the Muniment Room of the Diocesan Registry Office in Armagh. This same volume presents THE COUNTY ARMAGH HEARTHMONEY ROLLS, 1664, copied in the Public Record Office, Dublin, before 1922. This, in effect, is a census of the householders in County Armagh.

ARDAGH AND CLONMACNOISE ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY JOURNAL. Publication began with Vol. I, no. 1, in 1926, and had reached Vol. II, no. 12, in 1951. The area of interest covered by this magazine comprises the counties of Cavan, Leitrim, Roscommon, Sligo and Westmeath.

ARMAGH DIOCESAN HISTORICAL SOCIETY JOURNAL. This Society was founded in May, 1953, under the patronage of His Eminence, Cardinal D'Alton. Its primary purpose is the study of local history on the highest ecclesiastical level. Published articles are compiled from the manuscripts in Catholic diocesan libraries which represent the labor of many priests who have spent their lives gathering materials for histories of their parishes. For local history of County Armagh, they contain a treasure-trove of miscellaneous information concerning individuals, families and communities during the times of political changes, Catholic persecution under Penal Laws, Protestant settlements, revolution and confiscation, as revealed in seventeenth century documents. Some of these comprise extracts from the Rent Rolls of the Archbishopric, 1615; Chancery Inquisitions (rich in family records); Hearthmoney Rolls, 1664; Ashe's Survey; Rental of the Manor of Armagh, 1714 (with names and location of the tenants); Tithe-payer's lists, 1835; and various spellings of townland names in the seventeenth century documents. It presents, largely, material for the compiling of local history and genealogy.

BELFAST MONTHLY MAGAZINE. Publications began with Vol. I, in 1808, and continued through Vol. XIII, in 1814. So far as is known, it was not published subsequent to that date.

BIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY OF IRELAND (PUBLICATIONS). Beginning in 1918, when Vol. I appeared, the Society has published those papers of a biographical and genealogical nature, which were read before the members in Dublin.

CARLOVIANA: The Journal of the Old Carlow Society. This Society, which began publication with Vol. I, no. 1, in January, 1947, has made an important contribution to the printing of local and family history of County Carlow; little having appeared since John Ryan's History of Carlow, in 1834. The first number included three letters from emigrants to America, after the famine, ca. 1844. A list is also printed of the inhabitants of Carlow in 1824, as extracted from Pigott's Directory. A bibliography of County Carlow publications is presented (pp. 33-36). An account of "Killeshin Parish in the Nineteenth Century", with some genealogical material, is included.

CLOGHER RECORD. Publication of the Journal of the Clogher Historical Society began with Vol. I, no. 1, in 1953. This Catholic Society has for its area of interest the diocese of Clogher, which includes parts of counties Donegal, Fermanagh, Louth, Tyrone, and all of County Monaghan.

CLONMEL HISTORICAL AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY JOURNAL. The first issue of this publication appeared in 1952. Its interests include the city of Clonmel, County Tipperary, and the surrounding area.

CORK HISTORICAL AND ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY JOURNAL.

This Society was founded in 1891 and, the following year, began publication of a journal which has appeared in an uninterrupted series, reaching vol. 58, no. 187 (Jan.-June, 1953), and continuing to this date. An index to all numbers, 1892-1940, was compiled by Denis J. O. Donoghue (p. 104). The area of interest includes County Cork and the adjacent counties, owing to the fact that many County Cork families had interests in nearby counties through marriage and inheritance. The Journal is especially rich in genealogy, both as to quality and quantity. It, fortunately, has been strengthened by the membership and contributions of several of Ireland's most competent genealogists.

DONEGAL (COUNTY) HISTORICAL SOCIETY JOURNAL. Founded in 1947, it has for its purpose an emphasis on local and family history. Each number includes brief family histories, some genealogy, and a section entitled Notes and Queries, mostly of a genealogical nature. The County Donegal Catholic Qualification Rolls, 1778-1790, copied in the Public Record Office before 1922, was a contribution of Sean O Domhnaill, in Vol. I, no. 3 (December, 1949). This gives the names, residence and occupation of the Catholics who had taken and subscribed to the oath of allegiance. (See VOLUME I., PART THREE.)

DOWN AND CONNOR HISTORICAL SOCIETY'S JOURNAL. This Society was founded in 1926, to encourage the study of the local history, families and antiquities of the diocese, by the clergy and laity of Down and Connor. The diocese includes parts of the counties of Antrim, Down, and Londonderry.

DUBLIN HISTORICAL RECORD. The publication of the Old Dublin Society quarterly periodical has continued in an uninterrupted series since the founding of the Society in 1934.

DUBLIN MAGAZINE. An Irish monthly register. Vol. I, published in 1798, was continued for some time and contained genealogical information of this area.

DUBLIN SATURDAY MAGAZINE. Irish biography and antiquities included. Nos. 1-108, in one volume.

FRIENDS HISTORICAL SOCIETY JOURNAL. Publication began in 1903, and has continued to the present time. It is a rich source for Quaker genealogy.

GALWAY ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY JOURNAL. The Society was founded in 1900. The Journal has published excellent material on local history and genealogy of County Galway.

GENEALOGIST, THE. Published in London, 1877-1922, this contained some Irish as well as English genealogy.

GENEALOGISTS' MAGAZINE, THE. The official organ of the Society of Genealogists, London. Publication, beginning in 1925, has continued to the present date.

HERMATHENA. In vols. 58-61 (1946-1948), J. G. Smyly contributes installments of his calendar of "Old Deeds in Trinity College Library, 1348-1508".

IRISH BOOK LOVER. Founded in 1914, it has continued in an uninterrupted series to the present time. It devotes space to reviews of genealogical material and family subjects. Among these are "The Plunkett Genealogies."

IRISH ECCLESIASTICAL RECORD. A Catholic monthly journal under episcopal sanction, began publication in 1854, and has continued to the present time.

IRISH GENEALOGIST. This is the publication of the Irish Genealogical Society, under the editorship of the Rev. Wallace Clare. The Society was founded in London in September, 1936, and has collected a large library of books for genealogical reference and genealogical manuscripts. The published articles in the magazine are short, but valuable. They include brief transcripts of documents and lists of various classes of genealogical records.

IRISH HISTORICAL STUDIES. The joint journal of the Irish Historical Society and the Ulster Society for Irish Historical Studies. Published twice yearly from 1938 until the present time. Described at the beginning of this chapter.

IRISH REVIEW. Published in Dublin, 1911-1914, it contains material relating to family history.

IRISH SWORD. The Journal of the Military History of Ireland, it contains much military information, including lists and biographies of use to the genealogist.

KERRY: JOURNAL OF THE COUNTY KERRY ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY. Publication began in 1908. The stated purpose of this Journal is to record matter pertaining to county history, antiquities, county genealogies, etc. Some Kerry records contain extracts from original documents and compiled family histories (1612-1800). The Rev. Sir Henry L. Denny, its editor in 1923, published a Handbook of County Kerry Family History, Biography, etc. This contains the references for compiling over two hundred County Kerry genealogies.

KILDARE: JOURNAL OF THE COUNTY KILDARE ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY. The Society was founded and the first issue of its journal appeared in 1891. Publication has continued in an uninterrupted series to the present time. Besides much family history, under the editorship of Thomas Ulick Sadleir it has run a continued series of "Kildare Diocesan Wills", and among miscellanea, a list of officers of the Kildare Militia, 1794-1817, contributed by the late Tenison Groves.

KILKENNY: OLD KILKENNY REVIEW. Founded in 1946, the first issue contained the history of the families connected with Foulksrath Castle.

KILKENNY: JOURNAL OF THE KILKENNY AND SOUTH EAST IRELAND ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY. See Journal of the Royal Society of Antiquaries of Ireland.

LIMERICK: THE JOURNAL OF THE LIMERICK FIELD CLUB. It first appeared in 1897, and ran until 1908. See North Munster Antiquarian Society Journal.

LIMERICK: JOURNAL OF THE OLD LIMERICK SOCIETY. Publication was started in December, 1946. Contains biographical notes on county families.

LOUTH: JOURNAL OF THE COUNTY LOUTH ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY. Founded in 1904, the Society has made its journal one of the finest in Ireland. It is a storehouse of information on the county and its people. Original documents have been the basis for many articles.

MUNSTER: NORTH MUNSTER ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY JOURNAL. Vol. I, no. 1, October, 1936. The Journal of the Limerick Field Club, which first appeared in 1897 and ran until 1908, was continued in the following year by this journal which lapsed in 1919 at the termination of the Society. This Society was reorganized in 1929, as the Thomond Archaeological Society and the Field Club. In October, 1936, the Society again reorganized and began publication under the above name which has continued to the present time. Dr. Richard J. Hayes, in the first issue, contributed two articles: "The German Colony in County Limerick", which deals with the settlement, in 1709, of Protestant refugees from the Palatine, and "Some Limerick Doctors, from Dr. Thomas Arthur (1593-1674), to Sir Matthew Tierney (1776-1845)."

NOTES AND QUERIES. Publication began in London, in 1849. This magazine lays emphasis on genealogy. Besides many family records, a series was published in vols. 182-187; being 17th to 19th century wills of the people of the counties of Cavan, Donegal, Fermanagh, Galway, Kings, Longford, Mayo, Monaghan, Roscommon, Tipperary, Tyrone, and Westmeath. In vol. 187, the Walsh and Irwin pedigrees were printed.

ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY PROCEEDINGS. Published from time to time in Dublin, since 1836; material relating to family history is often presented.

ROYAL IRISH ACADEMY TRANSACTIONS. First published as a periodical in Dublin, 1785, it has appeared at intervals to the present day and contains information on records for compiling family history.

ROYAL SOCIETY OF ANTIQUARIES OF IRELAND. In 1849, the parent Society was founded as the Kilkenny Archaeological Society. In 1856, this was organized into the Kilkenny and South-East of Ireland Archaeological Society. In 1868, it became the Historical and Archaeological Association of Ireland. In 1870, it was formed into the Royal Historical and Archaeological Association of Ireland. In 1890, it was finally organized into the present Society. This Society is the oldest historical organization in Ireland, having published a periodical from its first year in 1849, and continued under the various changes of name in an uninterrupted series to the present time. No student of history or genealogy should complete his work without a search of this publication, as its interests extend throughout Ireland. In 1923, it had running through its numbers the "Ossory Marriage Licences", the "Ossory Intestate Administrations," and the "Kilkenny School Register (1685-1800)". In 1945, its numbers carried notes on "Eighteenth-Century Tombstones in County Wexford".

STUDIES. A periodical founded in 1912, it is among the most scholarly of Irish historical magazines. Dr. Richard J. Hayes has made numerous contributions to this magazine; among them being, "Irish Links with Bordeaux", an account of Irish families (and their origins) who settled there in the eighteenth century. His "Biographical Dictionary of Irishmen in France" (with their family connections) ran serially for years before it was published in book form in Dublin, in 1949. An Index to Studies (vols. 1-20), in typescript, is in the National Library and in the University College Library, Dublin. This is brought up to date with each issue.

TOPOGRAPHER AND GENEALOGIST. Published in three volumes, 1846-1858, only.

ULSTER JOURNAL OF ARCHAEOLOGY. First series, Belfast, 1853-1862. Second series, Belfast, 1895-1911. Third series, Belfast, 1938, to date. Not enough can be said for the genealogical importance of this publication, particularly with regard to Ulster. It is full of family records, compiled genealogies, and a great series of transcripts of primary records. Each volume is indexed. The larger American genealogical libraries have collections of this publication.

WATERFORD: JOURNAL OF THE WATERFORD AND SOUTH EAST OF IRELAND ARCHAEOLOGICAL SOCIETY. Founded in 1894, the Society published an uninterrupted series to 1920.

CHAPTER V

FAMILY INDEX TO ARTICLES IN IRISH PERIODICALS: RELATING TO FAMILY HISTORY, GENEALOGY, PEDIGREES, AND BIOGRAPHY

(With a key to the periodicals)

The principal Irish periodicals in which family history, genealogy, pedigrees, biography, transcripts of documents for compiling genealogy, etc., have appeared are listed below, followed by key numbers in parentheses. This key number in parenthesis, followed by volume and page numbers of the periodical, appears in each listing in the family index.

Complete files of these publications are deposited in the National Library of Ireland, Kildare Street, Dublin. The Ulster Journal of Archaeology will be found in Belfast, in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland, and at the Presbyterian Historical Society.

Most of the important American genealogical libraries have full or partial files of the older and well-known Irish periodicals of this nature.

CHAPTER VI

A SELECT LIST OF HISTORICAL WORKS CONTAINING MATERIAL FOR FAMILY HISTORY

This chapter will be divided into three sections; namely, county and town histories, diocesan and parish histories and histories of Ireland.

Irish county and town histories are, for the most part, better documented than similar histories in the United States and, on the whole, are more reliable. Diocesan and parish histories are usually based on church or local documents. The majority of the histories listed herein are devoted to seventeenth, eighteenth, and early nineteenth century records. They vary in quantity and classes of records. Some are rich in family history, genealogy, pedigrees, and brief genealogical notes of from one to several generations. Some contain transcripts of wills, marriage records, cemetery records, early and later tax records, rent rolls, muster rolls, freeman rolls, county lists of officers, etc., copied from original documents. A classic example which includes such records is found in The History of County Monaghan, by Evelyn Philip Shirley. London, 1879.

The National Library of Ireland has the most complete collection of histories of all classes. The Public Record Office of Northern Ireland has an excellent collection. The University libraries have good selections. The County libraries tend to specialize in their local areas. The larger American genealogical libraries have fairly good collections of the better county histories. The American Irish Historical Society in New York City has an excellent selection of county, town, diocesan and parish histories. The larger Irish book shops, such as Hodges Figgis in Dublin, and the Cathedral Book Shop in Belfast, carry a good selection.

HISTORIES OF IRELAND

No attempt is made by this compiler to present a lengthy bibliography of the works of Irish historians. It would only result in obscuring the few works which present material of use to the genealogist. A genealogist must have a good working knowledge of Irish history in order to understand the causes and effects which produced the records, and the various classes of records. Therefore, familiarity with certain works will teach the genealogist not only what happened to the Irish, the Anglo-Irish and the Scotch-Irish during the turbulent centuries before the mid-nineteenth century, but will also call attention to various collections of records which aid in compiling family history and genealogy.

CHAPTER VII

PUBLICATIONS OF THE IRISH MANUSCRIPTS COMMISSION WHICH RELATE TO GENEALOGY

The Irish Manuscripts Commission, through its publications, has performed a great service to genealogists. Among those described herein are two volumes containing abstracts of 1,464 wills, 1708 to 1785, which relate to land matters and are, therefore, deposited in the Registry of Deeds, Dublin. Another publication contains the abstracts of 224 early Quaker wills. A valuable aid to genealogists has been provided with the publication of the index to some 7,200 will abstracts which are in various manuscript collections in the Genealogical Office, Dublin Castle, Dublin. The Commission has also published collections of early Irish genealogies and much other material of a genealogical nature. For this reason, it is important to understand the history, the purpose and the scope of the work of the Irish Manuscripts Commission.

A Government Warrant of October, 1928, established the Irish Manuscripts Commission, its chosen personnel being historians, archivists, and literary men of the highest order. Among the distinguished members of the Commission are Mr. D. A. Chart, Past Deputy Keeper of the Public Records of Northern Ireland, and Dr. Richard J. Hayes, Director of the National Library of Ireland, both of whom have given long service. Dr. Edward MacLysaght, formerly Chief Herald of Ireland and Keeper of the Manuscripts in the National Library, was Chairman of the Commission in 1957, and Dr. James Hogan has been its Editor.

The purpose of the Commission is to search public repositories and private archives in England, Scotland, Wales, Ireland, and also certain ones abroad, for collections of manuscripts, documents and extremely rare printed works of historical, genealogical, literary and other interest pertaining to Ireland. The further purpose of the Commission has been to make selections from this material and to transcribe and edit for publication chosen collections of papers, manuscripts, etc., dating from the Middle Ages to the nineteenth century.

The Irish Manuscripts Commission has, since 1930, issued a journal from time to time entitled Analecta Hibernica. The purpose of the journal is to publish selected material which is not of sufficient length for separate volumes. The various numbers of Analecta Hibernica include reports on manuscript collections and abstracts of documents; also lists and indexes of record collections.

Much of the published material in the volumes and in the journal is of a genealogical nature. Therefore, genealogists will be interested in all of the following items, selected by this compiler from the full list of publications. Any of these may be purchased through the Dublin Stationery Office (Government Publications Sale Office), at 3 College Street, Dublin. A descriptive catalogue of all publications of the Irish Manuscripts Commission will be furnished upon request.

THE ANNALS OF LOCH CÉ, 1014-1636. 2 vols. 1939. Reproduction of the edition of 1871, prepared by W. M. Hennessy for the Rolls Series of Chronicles and Memorials of Great Britain and Ireland during the Middle Ages. 2 vols. The original manuscript, copied in 1588 by a scribe called Philip Bradley, for members of the MacDermot Family.

THE BOOK OF FENAGH. 1939. Reproduction of the edition by W. M. Hennessy and D. H. Kelly, 1875.

THE BOOK OF LECAN. A collotype facsimile (1937), with Foreword by Eoin MacNeill and Descriptive Introduction and Indexes by Kathleen Mulchrone. The original Great Book of Lecan, a treasured vellum manuscript in the Royal Irish Academy, is one of the earliest and most authoritative compilations of Irish genealogical material extant. It contains fifteenth century pedigrees of D'Arcy, De Cusack, Higgins, Keating, O'Keefe, Lynch, MacCartan, MacDonald, Macnamara, Maguire, Meginis, Middleton, Oglethorpe, O'Mahony, Porter, Power, Ryan, Sandilands, Williamson, with Appendix records of Naturalizations and Extracts from Registers.

THE BOOK OF UÍ MAINE. A collotype facsimile (1942), with Introduction and Indexes by R.A.S. Macalister. This is a fourteenth century manuscript, known as the Book of the O'Kellys. The contents are genealogical, romantic, metrical, etc.

A CENSUS OF IRELAND (ca. 1659). Edited by Séamus Pender. 1939. This is printed from the manuscript collection; copies of the original townland Census Returns of the inhabitants of Ireland, compiled under the direction of Sir William Petty. The Returns are listed geographically by counties, baronies, parishes and townlands. In cities, they are listed by parishes and streets. Under each townland and each city street, the number of English, Scotch and Irish inhabitants is stated. The Census Returns for the counties of Cavan, Galway, Mayo, Tyrone and Wicklow are missing, as are those for four baronies of County Cork and nine baronies of County Meath. Supplementary records taken from the Poll Money Ordinances, 1660-61, are supplied from manuscripts now in Marsh's Library, Dublin, and appear in Appendices.

THE CIVIL SURVEY (A. D. 1654-1656). Edited by Robert C. Simington.

VOL. I (Tipperary E. & S.) 1931.
VOL. II (Tipperary W. & N.) 1934.
VOL. III (Donegal, Derry & Tyrone). 1937.
VOL. IV (Limerick). 1938.
VOL. V (Meath). 1940.
VOL. VI (Waterford, Muskerry Barony (Co. Cork), and Kilkenny City. Valuations, ca. 1663-1664, for Cork and Waterford Cities). 1942.
VOL. VII (Dublin County). 1945.
VOL. VIII (County Kildare). 1952.
VOL. IX (County Wexford). 1952.

The records of the Civil Survey were written, 1654-1656, from the information and evidence supplied by "the most able and ancient inhabitants of the country". The testimony was supplied by local juries in all parts of the country, being descriptions and records of the land and its owners in 1640, before the Catholic Revolution. The Civil Survey enumerated, by name and description, every estate of every proprietor of land in twenty-seven Irish counties. Also Gaelic and Norman ancestral records of tenure and titles acquired by patent from the Crown were set forth. Local information for each townland included the name and residence of the owner, the homes of the tenants, estimates of their value, acreage under cultivation and pasture, etc., and antiquities and valuable notes of information about the families. Particulars of deeds and wills were frequently given. The surveys of the counties vary in the wealth of detail. In Vol. III, the Survey sets forth the owners established after the Plantation of Ulster and also includes the properties of minor freeholders. Vol. V includes a section of the Survey descriptive of the tithes of every parish of County Meath, the landowners and the values in 1640. Vol. VI gives the valuations, ca. 1663-1664, naming the proprietors of Cork and Waterford cities in 1640, and their tenants or possessors some twenty years later. The purpose of the Civil Survey was to inform the English Government. Parliament was responsible for heavy debts incurred to finance the English armies in Ireland. The Cromwellian Government planned to confiscate the lands of Catholic revolutionaries and raised money by previous sale of Irish lands to English "Adventurers." The Commonwealth Government also needed to satisfy its own officers and soldiers for arrears in pay with allotments of Irish land. Thus, the Government needed to know all of the particulars regarding Irish landowners and tenants in preparation for a mass confiscation. In so doing, a wealth of genealogical information was preserved.

THE COMPOSSICION BOOKE OF CONOUGHT. Edited by A. Martin Freeman. 1936. This book sets forth the details of the agreement of October, 1585, between the great lords of the Western Province of Ireland and the Royal Commission for a resettlement of the Province under feudal plan. Beginning with County Clare and on northwards, the property was enumerated by records of assignments to the great chiefs as tenants of the Crown and to the lesser men as their vassals. This book has especial value in regard to County Connaught and County Clare families.

DOWDALL AND PEPPARD DEEDS. 2 vols. Edited by Charles McNeill, A. Gwynn, and A. J. Otway-Ruthven. 1951. The collection of original Dowdall and Peppard Deeds is now in the National Library. It forms a complete series of deeds of one family, dating from the early thirteenth century down to the mid-seventeenth century. With other miscellaneous records, the collection mainly concerns the family of Douedale (now Dowdall) and their estates located in and near Dundalk, Co. Louth. Documents show that this family acted as legal representatives for other families. They show evidence of family descent, inheritance of the land in English Oriel (Co. Louth), and illustrate the legal methods from the beginning of the English occupation. The Peppard family of Drogheda has owned most of the collection since the time of Cromwell, and from this time, for some years, their legal papers, etc., were added to the earlier documents. Aside from the Ormond archives, no other family collection is as complete in Ireland, for the span of time. The editors have compiled a complete calendar of abstracts of the documents, arranged in chronological order, with an index of personal and place names.

THE KENMARE MANUSCRIPTS. Edited by Edward MacLysaght. 1942. This manuscript collection has been edited and printed by permission of the Earl of Kenmare, Killarney. The documents tell the story of the fall of a powerful Catholic family after supporting the cause of James II, who was defeated in Ireland by William of Orange. The Kenmare estates were confiscated under William III but, in time, the family regained its extensive lands in counties Kerry, Limerick and Cork and held them through the worst years of Catholic persecution. The collection includes the rental books of the Kerry estates which aid in tracing Co. Kerry families from the present time back to dates between 1600-1650. Letters, diaries, etc., add much detail of the times. The documents date mainly from 1588-1795.

THE KING'S INNS ADMISSION PAPERS: 1607-1867. Edited by Thomas U. Sadleir. 1952. The Registers of the Honorable Society of the King's Inns, Dublin, concern the records of barristers and solicitors and students of law in Dublin. The seventeenth century entries usually are lacking records of parentage and age, residence, etc., such as appear in the Registers of Trinity College, Dublin. However, as Irish law students were required to complete their studies in one of the English Inns of Court in London, the Registers of the Inner Temple, the Middle Temple, Gray's Inn, or Lincoln's Inn, usually supply the lack for Irish law students who completed their work in London. Beginning about 1720, the Registers of King's Inns usually contain the records of parentage. The nineteenth century entries supply such items as parentage, place of education, mother's maiden name, etc., based on an application made at age 16 by the student and an affidavit signed by a friend or relative.

KNIGHTS' FEES IN COUNTIES WEXFORD, CARLOW AND KILKENNY. Edited by E. St. John Brooks. 1950. This is an account of the Knights' fees, recorded for the three counties, upon the death of the last Earl Marshall, Lord of Leinster, in the year 1247. Later lists record family descents with identification of place names.

("THE MUNSTER BOOK") AN LEABHAR MUIMHNEACH. Edited by Tadhg ÓDonnchadha. 1940. The genealogies of many Irish families of the Province of Munster are set forth in this book which includes also the genealogies of the leading Gaelic families of Ireland and of many early families tracing to Norman origin. The genealogies dating from ancient times are in many cases brought down to later than 1700. Records of the Munster families include land holdings. The original work was compiled, ca. 1750, in two manuscripts which drew upon ancient sources. This is in the Royal Irish Academy, MS. 23 E. 26.

CALENDAR OF ORMOND DEEDS, 1172-1603. 6 vols. Edited by E. Curtis. 1932-43. The collection of Ormond Deeds belonging to the Ormond family, long preserved in Kilkenny Castle, ranks as the largest family collection of medieval records in Ireland. Later documents of this family, 1603 onwards, have been calendared by the English Historical Manuscripts Commission. The Calendar, 1172-1603, regarding deeds and other records, mostly of the Butler family, was made while the documents were loaned by the Earl of Ossory (later Marquess of Ormonde). Among several thousands of deeds and other records, great numbers relate to the Anglo-Norman families as well as to the Butler family, in the counties of Carlow, Kilkenny, Tipperary, Waterford, and some other locations. Much information is given for pedigrees of important county families.

THE RED BOOK OF ORMOND. Edited by Newport B. White. 1932. This is a transcript of the original register belonging to the Butler family, once preserved in Kilkenny Castle and now deposited in the Bodleian Library, Oxford. It records the rentals of many manors and properties, mostly in Counties Kildare, Kilkenny and Tipperary, largely in the fourteenth century, a few in the fifteenth, and one in the sixteenth century. Rentals throw light on family land tenures through the generations.

IRISH MONASTIC AND EPISCOPAL DEEDS FROM THE ORMOND COLLECTION. Edited by Newport B. White. 1936. Transcripts of over 150 deeds, charters, and some documents, including matrimonial causes, questions of legitimacy, inheritance, etc., are calendared in this volume. Over sixty documents are dated in the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth centuries and the remainder later than 1500.

CALENDAR OF THE ORRERY PAPERS. Edited by Edward MacLysaght. 1941. The original documents preserved in the National Library relate to the Orrery family during the thirty year period from the Restoration, ca. 1659, to the Williamite War, ca. 1689. The documents consist of rent rolls, leases, marriage settlements, wills, etc. Many letters in the collection concern family affairs, disagreements, etc.; others deal with the family estates in Counties Cork and Limerick.

INDEX OF PARISHES AND TOWNLANDS OF IRELAND FROM SEVENTEENTH CENTURY MAPS. Edited by Y. M. Goblet. 1932. This is the first published index of seventeenth century Irish place names, recorded on old maps. The Down Survey and the Manuscript Barony maps prepared by Sir William Petty, ca. 1655-59, were used by Dr. Goblet. The names of some 25,000 townlands are arranged alphabetically, showing the parish and county where each is located. A second indexed list of about 2,000 names of parishes, arranged alphabetically, places each parish in its respective barony and county.

QUAKER RECORDS, DUBLIN, ABSTRACTS OF WILLS. Edited by P. Beryl Eustace and Olive C. Goodbody. 1957. This volume contains abstracts of 224 Quaker wills, arranged alphabetically by name of the testators. Some are dated before 1700, but most are of the early eighteenth century. They give the name of the testator, occupation or condition (widow, etc.), place of residence, date of will, occasionally the date and place of probate, the names of legatees with descriptions of relationship, property specified, and often the place of burial. These abstracts are based upon six manuscript collections of wills preserved at the Meeting House of the Society of Friends, Eustace Street, Dublin. Appendix I gives an alphabetical list of the wills preserved in the Records of the Ulster Quarterly Meeting at The Meeting House, Railway Street, Lisburn. This shows the name of the testator, address, some dates of death, date of will, and some dates of inventory. Appendix II gives a list of full copies of wills (some original), deposited in the library of Friends House, Dublin.

THE SHAPLAND CAREW PAPERS. Edited by A. K. Longfield. 1946. This volume is a calendar of a collection of papers relating to the Carew family, whose estates lay in Counties Wexford and Waterford. The documents are dated 1740-1822, a few being dated from the seventeenth century. Four books of rentals show tenancies and tenures. This is not a complete family collection.

BOOKS OF SURVEY AND DISTRIBUTION. Edited by R. C. Simington. Vol. I. County Roscommon. 1949. Vol. II. County Mayo. 1951. The Public Record Office, Dublin, has a complete set of Manuscript Books of Survey and Distribution for all counties, sent in from the Quit Rent Office. Because of the general scarcity of records for the above two counties, these two volumes have been published to supply valuable records of land ownership in every parish and barony prior to and following the forfeitures of land under Cromwell and William III. These provide the names of the original owners before the forfeitures, the description and extent of the lands forfeited, and the lands distributed to the new {Protestant, usually English and some Huguenot} owners.

ABSTRACTS OF WILLS AT THE REGISTRY OF DEEDS, DUBLIN. Edited by P. Beryl Eustace. Vol. I, 1708-1745; Vol. II, 1746-1785. 1954, 1956. Some years ago, Miss P. Beryl Eustace began this work by compiling an index to over two thousand wills which, because of their significance in land matters, were deposited in the Registry of Deeds. The work was continued with the compiling of abstracts of 738 registered wills, 1708-1745, for Vol. I. Vol. II contains the abstracts of 726 registered wills, 1746-1785. Over seven hundred abstracts may appear in a third volume. These abstracts provide the name of the testator, address, occupation or condition (such as title, Esq., gent., widow, etc.), date of will, date of registration, names and relationships and addresses (where stated) of all legatees, property devised, witnesses at the signing and at registration. Notes describe the length, etc., of the will, and the reference to the book and page number of the copy of memorial in the Registry of Deeds; also the number by which the original memorial is filed in this repository. These provide the necessary numbers for ordering copies for more detailed study. The volumes of the above abstracts are indexed with the names of the testators in bold print and the names of all others mentioned in the wills in light print.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA (The Journal of the Irish Manuscripts Commission). Only the numbers which contain records of particular interest to the genealogist are listed.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA, No. 3. 1931. Eoin MacNéill and Cormac ÓCadhla have edited and presented a collection of rare Ulster genealogies, set forth in a manuscript book in the library of St. Colman's College, Fermoy. These include the pedigrees, forming a valuable supplement to pedigrees in the Annals of Ulster, 1300-1588 (in some cases brought down later than 1700), chiefly of County Fermanagh families. The records are given in great detail for the families of: MagUidhir (Maguire); MacMaghnusa (MacManus); MacDomhnaill (MacDonnell); MacGothraidh (MacCorry, or Corry); MacCába (MacCabe); MacGafraidh (MacCaffrey, Caffrey); óFlannagáin, MagRaith (Magrath); MacMathghamhna (MacMahon, or Matthews); Mac an Mhaighister (MacMaster, Masterson); MacMoruinn (Morrin); óCaiside (Cassidy); Mag Aodha (Magee, MacHugh, Hughes); óManacháin (Monahan); óTréasaigh (Tracey); óBanáin (Bannon), etc. Also in this number, Dr. James Hogan has edited and presented (from Rawlinson MS. A. 237, Bodleian Library, Oxford), the text of the Barony and Townland Survey of the six escheated counties of Ulster, made in 1608, in preparation for the Plantation of Ulster.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 4. 1932. This number presents a collection of documents, edited and compiled chronologically by the Rev. Fr. Aubrey Gwynn, relative to the Irish settlers in the West Indies in the seventeenth century, having been driven there by their misfortunes and forfeitures, after the Catholic Rebellion of 1641, and by the Cromwellian confiscations. Some documents refer to the first Irish settlements in Virginia.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 5. 1934. Index to Numbers 1-4. Prepared by Newport B. White.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 7. A Guide to Irish Genealogical Collections. By Séamus Pender. 1935. This is an introductory guide to material in early Irish manuscripts. A table of references is presented for the following: The Book of Leinster (Rawlinson B 502); the Book of Ballymote (Bodleian MS. Laud 610); the Leabhar Breac; the Yellow Book of Lecan; the Book of Lecan; the Book of Uí Maine; MacFirbis's Book of Genealogies; the O'Clery Book of Genealogies. References are made to further works in genealogical manuscripts preserved in the British Museum, King's Inns (Dublin), Advocates (Edinburgh), Franciscan Convent (Merchants' Quay, Dublin), the Royal Irish Academy, and Trinity College Library (Dublin).

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 8. 1938. This contains items such as the Ulster Plantation Papers, 1608-13, edited by Dr. T. W. Moody from a manuscript in the library of Trinity College, Dublin. It also contains the O'Clery MS. (23 D. 17, Royal Irish Academy), edited by the late Rev. Fr. Paul Walsh. This sets forth the O'Donnell Genealogies (13th-17th centuries).

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 9. 1940. Indexes to Numbers 6 and 8, prepared by Newport B. White.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 10. 1941. In this number, among other records, is the contribution of the late Rev. Fr. Paul Walsh. He has transcribed the Adams Rental from the manuscript in the National Library, accompanied by nine maps which set forth the formation of a great post-Cromwellian estate in Co. Westmeath.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 13, 1944. Index to Numbers 10 and 12, prepared by Newport B. White.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 14. 1944. Dr. Edward MacLysaght, formerly Chief Herald of Ireland and, in 1957, Chairman of the Irish Manuscripts Commission, presents a calendar of important material for a diocesan history of the Co. Galway area, which is of value to genealogists interested in Galway.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 16. 1946. Dr. R. C. Simington contributes a description of the Annesley collection, Castlewellan, Co. Down, which comprises a great many manuscript volumes. An important part of this collection, which was photographed by the National Library, is the set of Books of Survey and Distribution for all Irish counties, except one. Two Books of Survey and Distribution, for Counties Mayo and Roscommon, have been transcribed, edited and published by the Irish Manuscripts Commission. These are described among their published books, and their genealogical value which pertains to all such works, has been noted. Also, in the Annesley collection are the 1700-3

Proceedings of the Council of Trustees, appointed to dispose by sale of the estates [of Catholics] forfeited in 1688. These are set forth in thirty-two documents which include "Outlawrys", petitions, depositions, rent rolls, and accounts of valuations of estates with the names of former owners and purchasers. No duplicate of this series was in the Public Record Office, Dublin, before 1922. They contain much genealogical information.

ANALECTA HIBERNICA No. 17. 1949. This number should be in constant use by genealogists. It contains (pp. 149-348) the Index of the Will Abstracts in the Genealogical Office, Dublin, presented by Miss P. Beryl Eustace. Some 7,500 will abstracts are listed. The Index shows the name and address of each testator, the year of probate (almost entirely seventeenth and eighteenth century), description, by profession or rank, and a key to the manuscript collection in which the will abstract may be located. See VOLUME I, CHAPTER IV, for further details.

PART TWO

UNPUBLISHED FAMILY RECORDS

A SELECTED BIBLIOGRAPHY AND FAMILY INDEX OF GENEALOGY, FAMILY HISTORY, PEDIGREES, NOTES, AND COLLECTIONS OF FAMILY DOCUMENTS

MANUSCRIPTS IN THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE OF NORTHERN IRELAND

Following is a family index to some important manuscripts deposited in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland, located in the Law Courts Building, May Street, Belfast. Mr. Kenneth Darwin, M. A., is the Deputy Keeper of the Records. Included are pedigrees, family history, genealogical records, and collections of family documents.

This list has been compiled as a representative selection from the many thousands of records of a genealogical nature which are calendared in the Reports of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records of Northern Ireland, 1924-53. These Reports are, in fact, catalogues of a large part of the records in this office. They are fully described in VOLUME I, PART TWO, CHAPTER VI, which is devoted to the accession lists in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland.

The manuscript records vary from a single pedigree, brief family history, genealogical chart, compiled genealogy, etc., to collections of a few or many wills, marriage records, deeds, leases and other classes of records which may be used for compiling genealogy.

Some of the largest collections in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland represent the life work of a famous genealogist, the collections of legal or personal documents during many generations in a family, or the wills, marriage settlements, deeds, etc., accumulated over centuries in a solicitor's office. One fairly recent gift of records, which were original legal documents dating from the seventeenth century, weighed over two tons.

The very large collections are described in detail in the Reports and are self-indexed as the items are too numerous for inclusion in the name index of the Reports. These are noted by this compiler in VOLUME I, PART TWO, CHAPTER VI.

One of these collections comprises forty-two large volumes of pedigree charts, copied by or for Sir Bernard Burke, from Sir William Betham's 39-volume collection which he made from his own abstracts of all the Prerogative Wills of Ireland, 1536-1800. One of Burke's volumes contains pedigree charts from Prerogative Grants of Administration, 1595-1800. These pedigree charts range in length from two to many generations. The longer charts have been compiled from more than one will in a family and, in some cases, from additional sources. Microfilms of Sir William Betham's collections are in the United States; see PART FOUR of this volume.

The family manuscript collections and documents in the Public Record Office of Northern Ireland largely concern those families which lived in one or more of the nine original counties of the Province of Ulster. However, there are some notable exceptions to this rule, as some large genealogical collections which have been acquired contain documents (transcripts or abstracts) concerning individuals or families of the southern counties of Ireland. The greater portion of the families of English or Scottish origin which settled in Ulster, came there in the seventeenth century. Many of the pedigrees, etc., listed below, trace these families to the places of their origin. There are, however, many families of ancient Gaelic or Norman origin, particularly in counties Donegal, Fermanagh, and Monaghan, which have been there since early times. There are also many families of this origin which settled in ancient times in one of the three southern provinces and then, during the late seventeenth or early eighteenth century, removed to one of the nine original counties of Ulster. Since 1922, three of these original counties of Ulster, namely, Cavan, Donegal, and Monaghan, have been embraced in the Republic of Ireland.

Each family listing will be followed by a date (year) and a page number in parentheses. These represent the year of the Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records of Northern Ireland, and the page number of the printed index of the Report where the item is listed. These dates and page numbers are for the convenience of the person who may wish to order photostats or copies of the records. Thus, in giving the order, one can signify where the item is calendared in a specific Report, and so identify the desired record. For further instructions regarding the ordering of records and the price lists, see VOLUME I, PART TWO, CHAPTER VI, concerning this repository. Let us suppose that a genealogist wishes to order the first item listed by requesting a photostatic copy of the "Acheson Family Pedigree and Notes, 1692-1938. (1938-45, p. 15.)" In sending the order, he will give the title of the manuscript and, for identification, will state that it is listed in the Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records of Northern Ireland, 1938-1945, on page 15. A money order for $6.00 is now required as a registration fee and deposit. An estimate of any additional charges for the photostating should be requested. These charges are reasonable.

CHAPTER II

MANUSCRIPTS IN THE PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE OF IRELAND

The following list of family histories, pedigrees and family collections of documents is representative of the records of a genealogical nature, now deposited in the Public Record Office of Ireland, located in the Four Courts, Dublin. Mr. Diarmid Coffey is the Assistant Deputy Keeper of the Records and in charge of the Office.

This indexed list of families and their records is selected from the collections calendared in the Reports of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records in Ireland, namely, the 55th (1928), 56th (1931), 57th (1936) and 58th (1951) Reports. They are, in effect, published catalogues of the records.

Mr. Coffey has followed an outline in making his Reports to the government, since the fire of 1922. All describe the care, arrangement and indexing of the records. The 55th-57th describe the collections saved from the fire, and the appendices contain detailed indexes of the documents in many collections, by name of the principal, county or more particular residence, nature, year and source of the records.

The 55th-58th Reports list in some detail the collections purchased or presented since the fire, as well as the deposits not required by law from other government agencies and the normal increments from various sources.

The purchased and presented collections contain replacements of records destroyed in 1922, and original documents never before deposited. The replacements are certified copies and transcripts, abstracts, lists or notes, made by qualified persons, from all classes of original records, before the fire. These are genealogical materials of great value, being records of wills, grants and bonds (administration), marriage records, census, tax, and court records, parish registers, etc.; also family history, compiled genealogy and pedigrees. The collections represent the life work of many important genealogists, the contributions of other repositories, material from the files of solicitors or legal offices, and the contents of private family archives.

The original documents deposited in this manner are wills never lodged for probate, other testamentary records, deeds, leases, marriage settlements or agreements, affidavits, estate records and other documents of various classes. They have been acquired principally from solicitors, many of whom emptied their vaults of early documents, and from families or individuals who contributed private papers.

All collections of replacements are calendared and described as to class and nature of the records, number of volumes or documents, inclusive dates and area of interest. Items in smaller collections are listed or indexed. The very large collections are self indexed and, with exceptions, the contents could not be included in the indexes of the Reports, due to the great number of items. Sir William Betham's collection of 241 volumes of "Genealogical Abstracts" made from the Prerogative Wills, 1535-1800, and other records, is an example of one collection which is only described in the Reports and may be consulted in the Search Room of the Public Record Office. Exceptions are the "Gertrude Thrift Collection" of about 3,600 abstracts and transcripts of wills, marriage records, etc., formerly in this Office, and the "J.G.A. Prim Collection" containing many pedigrees, family histories and other items of genealogical nature. The former is indexed in appendices of the 55th and 57th Reports. The contents of the latter is described in detail and indexed in the 58th Report.

The single items in the collections of original documents, and the smaller manuscript collections, received 1922-1936, are indexed in the appendices of the 55th-57th Reports. After 1936, the volume of records received was too great to allow indexing in the 58th Report (1951). Card indexes, catalogues, etc., referring to these records are in the Public Search Room.

The following index contains family names, notes regarding the nature of the records and, in parentheses, the number of the Report (55th, 56th, 57th or 58th) and the page number on which the family or individual records are described or listed.

As the Reports also record the names of families, the history of which has been a subject of study during the period covered by the Report, indicating that material relating to such families is in the Office, these names are included in the following index. They are listed with a reference to the Report where mentioned, and with an asterisk before the name to indicate the type of reference. These names are included only to indicate that one might be successful in seeking further details during a visit to the Office or by correspondence.

The references in parentheses after the family names in the following index should be mentioned in any written request sent to this Office, asking for details. For further instructions, see VOLUME ONE, PART TWO, CHAPTER V.

Attention is also called to the fact that this family index serves only as a sample of the many thousands of records of a genealogical nature in this Office. It is compiled from 1,255 pages of the 55th-58th Reports. If possible, they should be studied for further findings. Full sets of the Reports, published 1869-1958, are in the larger genealogical libraries of the United States.

NEWSPAPERS AND PERIODICALS

The following provides sources of information concerning the past publication of Irish newspapers and periodicals; the cities and towns wherein they were published, dates of publication, existing issues, present location and details of extant numbers in many collections.

Irish newspapers supply many birth, marriage and death notices for the cities and towns represented. They offer a wealth of miscellaneous news items regarding individuals and families. Emigration notices were also published. Many newspapers and periodicals ran a series of genealogical articles and biographical sketches.

A chapter in VOLUME I is devoted to newspapers and periodicals, listing the 17th, 18th and early 19th century publications, by city and town, with notations as to the dates and location of extant issues in many collections.

RECORDS OF PUBLIC OFFICES, FREEHOLDERS AND GUILDS

The biographical dictionaries and publications of collected pedigrees, listed in PART ONE, CHAPTER III, provide information about those who held the more important public offices. Many of the excellent county and town histories contain the rolls of those who have, from the seventeenth century or earlier, represented their county in the Irish Parliament, and also lists of past mayors, burgesses, sheriffs, etc. Footnotes regarding many of these men add biographical and genealogical details. Some additional sources are herein presented.

The Guild Records and Rolls of Freemen now extant are largely unpublished. Several of the records and rolls have been transcribed, however, for genealogical purposes. Some of these have been printed and the sources are noted below.

PART FOUR

MICROFILMS

COLLECTIONS OF MICROFILMS FOR REFERENCE, WITH A KEY TO LOCATION OF RECORDS

MICROFILMS

The following provides a list of microfilms of some of the more important Irish manuscripts, lists and indexes, which are a rich source of material for genealogists.

In 1941, Dr. Richard J. Hayes, Director of the National Library of Ireland, Dublin, initiated a policy of microfilming every important manuscript collection relating to Ireland and its people, dated from ancient to modern times. Irish scholars had long been searching the public and private repositories of records and family archives throughout Ireland, Great Britain, Europe and America for documents of this nature. Further discovery of records, selection and microfilming of collections by the National Library has resulted in many thousands of manuscripts of a genealogical, historical, or literary nature being recorded on film. This has now made a wealth of genealogical source materials available to the public.

The Reports of the Council of Trustees, National Library of Ireland, 1950-51, 1951-52, 1952-53 (3 vols.), contain lists of the microfilms of manuscript collections made by the National Library which are in public repositories. These lists of microfilms have been arranged under the name of the city or town in which the library or repository owning the records is situated. The same plan will be followed in this bibliography with respect to all microfilms listed below.

As it is impossible to transcribe here the full list of microfilms of genealogical interest, it is suggested that reference be made to the Reports. They may be purchased for four shillings each, at the Government Publications Sale Office, G. P. O. Arcade, Dublin; also at the Hodges Figgis Book Shop, and at other book shops in Dublin.

The Reports do not contain lists of the microfilms which have been made of many privately owned collections of manuscripts. These have been calendared by the National Library with typed, annotated lists or indexes to the contents of each film. The indexes of more extensive private collections have also been microfilmed.

Many of the privately owned manuscripts, thus recorded on film, yield a wealth of genealogical material, consisting of pedigrees, diaries, letters, family legal or personal documents, wills, marriage records, and estate records including leases, lists of tenants, and their affairs. Privately owned collections of records of past government officials, such as the Annesley Collection, have great genealogical value. It contains the most complete set of records extant, regarding Forfeited Estates, 1690-1770. Also the "Books of Survey and Distribution" for each county of Ireland except Meath, have been microfilmed as a part of the Annesley Collection. Analecta Hibernica, Nos. 16 and 20, published by the Irish Manuscripts Commission, give a full description and history of the Annesley Collection.

Since 1950, the National Library has been microfilming many hundreds of Roman Catholic Parish Registers. Under the direction of Dr. Hayes, these registers have been sent to the Library, about fifty at a time, for recording on film, until all parish records of one diocese were completed. So far, the records of sixteen dioceses in the Republic of Ireland have been filmed.

Dr. Hayes has also pursued a policy of microfilming rare published records which are growing too old and valuable for longer use by the public. Directories, of great value for locating people, such as Lucas' Directory of the City of Cork, 1787, and the same for the South East of Ireland, 1788; also Pigot's Directory of 1820, and others, have been filmed. Rare early newspapers such as The Freeman's Journal, Dublin, are being indexed for subjects and for personal items, notices of birth, marriage, death, emigration, etc. The index cards are being microfilmed.

Dr. Hayes has recognized the need for adequate indexing of the Irish historical journals and periodicals. Only the Journal of the Royal Society of Antiquaries, the Cork Historical and Archaeological Society Journal, and the Ulster Journal of Archaeology have maintained excellent indexes. Card indexes for the other publications are being prepared and microfilmed.

The National Library has also filmed the records of the Society of Friends, Dublin. Copies of the four films are in Friends Historical Library, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania.

The records of the Society of Friends, Lisburn, Northern Ireland, have been recorded on four films by the Queen's University, Belfast. Copies of these films are also in Friends Historical Library, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania.

A program of microfilming the important manuscript collections in the Public Record Office of Ireland, Dublin, has been pursued in the past few years. The following announcement was made in the 58th Report of the Deputy Keeper of the Public Records in Ireland (1958), p. 9: "Microfilm copies have been made of a large number of records. These are being stored in a separate building." As no list or index to these films is printed, reference must be made to this repository for further information.

The Genealogical Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon), Salt Lake City, Utah, has made a great contribution to Irish genealogy by an extensive microfilming program in Ireland. When their representatives came to Ireland in the hope of obtaining permission to microfilm extensive genealogical collections, indexes, and source materials, Dr. Richard J. Hayes sponsored their cause. In return, the National Library was rewarded with copies of all films made by the Mormon representatives in Ireland. These include about 127 films of the entire collection of manuscripts in the Genealogical Office, Dublin Castle, Dublin. As the records of this office which are included in the manuscript collections are not open to the public, it is now possible for anyone to see them on microfilm in the National Library of Ireland, or in the Genealogical Society Library, Salt Lake City, Utah. One especially valuable collection in the Genealogical Office, Dublin, comprises the 39 volumes of Pedigree Charts, made from the Prerogative Wills of Ireland, 1536-1800, by Sir William Betham, Ulster King of Arms, from his genealogical abstracts of the wills which he first compiled in his collection of notebooks, now deposited in the Public Record Office of Ireland, Dublin. Dr. Hayes, in 1955, sent copies of the microfilms of the above Betham collection of Pedigree Charts to the Library of Congress, Washington, D. C. The published Index to the Prerogative Wills of Ireland, 1536-1810, by Sir Arthur Vicars, 1897, is the guide to every will represented in Betham's Pedigree Charts, 1536-1800. Another important guide to the microfilms of the manuscript collections in the Genealogical Office, Dublin, is the "Index of Will Abstracts in the Genealogical Office, Dublin", published in Analecta Hibernica, No. 17 (1949), by the Irish Manuscripts Commission. About 7,500 abstracts are indexed by name of the testator, with residence, year of probate or date of will, and the notation as to the name of the manuscript collection in which it is deposited.

The representatives from Salt Lake City also microfilmed the two extensive indexes in the Registry of Deeds, Dublin, between the dates when the records began, 1708 to 1904. The Names Index is recorded on 122 films, and the Land Index on 283 films. Copies of the films are in the National Library of Ireland as well as in the Genealogical Society Library, Salt Lake City, Utah. An index to the contents of the films has been printed for the National Library. This is a necessary guide in the use of the films. It has been included in this publication, VOL. I, PART TWO, CHAPTER I, under "Registry of Deeds", following the explanation of the records, indexes, and methods of ordering copies of deeds, leases, marriage settlements, etc.

A guide for the following bibliography is provided below, with key numbers for all repositories of the microfilms. The key numbers in parentheses, before listed items, will indicate where the microfilms are located.

A BIBLIOGRAPHY FOR PRELIMINARY RESEARCH IN THE UNITED STATES

FOR THE PURPOSE OF OBTAINING BASIC INFORMATION REGARDING THE IMMIGRANT ANCESTOR

A BIBLIOGRAPHY FOR PRELIMINARY RESEARCH IN THE UNITED STATES

EXPLANATION OF THE SELECTED RECORDS

An important message is here being repeated. The following bibliography has been prepared in response to urgent requests from the directors and their assistants in some of the principal repositories of genealogical records in Ireland. Their requests have been made to this compiler during every personal interview in the past ten years, when the plan for this two-volume guide was being discussed. They wish Americans to know that their attitude toward all who make genealogical inquiries is one of friendly inclination to cooperate. They are disappointed, however, over their inability to help the large number of Americans, whose letters asking for genealogical help fail to supply basic information regarding the emigrant ancestor. They call these "vague inquiries", and believe each case to be an indication that little, if any, serious research has been attempted with the use of American source materials in an effort to discover all records concerning the immigrant ancestor and his immediate family. They regretfully reply that they can be of no help without further information.

Thus, not enough can be said to stress the advantage of learning everything possible about the Irish or Scotch-Irish immigrant ancestor through a preliminary search of American records, before proceeding with the Irish work. Among the genealogical and historical sources of the states wherein the Irish or Scotch-Irish made original settlements before the last century, much basic information has been discovered regarding various first generation settlers in America.

Records to be sought and some often found, are those of the parentage, brothers, sisters, or other relatives, of the immigrant in Ireland or America; the Irish locality of his birth, or home (at least the county) from which he emigrated; his certain or approximate age upon departure; the exact or probable time and place of settlement in America, as well as records of marriage, children, death, or burial.

The given names of the immigrant's father, brothers, sisters, and of any children in order of their birth, particularly any unusual given name, might help to identify him with a certain Irish family. The record of the time of marriage will indicate whether he was a householder in Ireland and, if so, had some leased or owned property to dispose of before emigration. Information about his wife's family and its origin, if Irish, could guide the search for his residence in Ireland. Knowledge of the place of origin of his Irish-American neighbors, if they came at or about the same time, would offer a clue to his own Irish locality for, before 1800, these emigrants were prone to move in groups. Each item discovered can help to narrow the choice of Irish records later to be searched.

Therefore, the following selected bibliography of published works is offered as an aid to preliminary research in the genealogical libraries of the United States. It lists the guides, and many published records which will lead to, or offer information concerning the first generation Irish and Scotch-Irish in America, from the seventeenth century through the early years of the nineteenth century. It therefore covers only the states in which original settlements of the first or second generation in America were made during this period. Fortunately, many of the listed sources will also serve for a study of later arrivals who settled in these early states.

The parentage, Irish origin, and other records of those who came during the great immigration from Ireland, beginning in the 1830s and increasing tremendously through the 1850s, are more easily traced, regardless of where they settled throughout the country. The available records include family papers, Bible records, newspaper obituaries, biographies in local histories, tombstone records which in some cases give the place of birth, as well as the public sources of genealogical records in all states.

It is impossible to include here a list of the hundreds of county, town, and regional histories of the early states. Guides to such works for all states are listed, and good collections are available in various American genealogical libraries. Local histories throughout the country, mostly written after 1850, are a rich source of information regarding the origins of first settlers and the ancestry of later residents who played some part in the community. These sources should in all cases be located and examined for the short biographies, etc., even if it is necessary to page through without the aid of an index. While local biographies are, for the most part, classed as secondary evidence, those for the late colonial or following settlers have usually been compiled from records supplied by elderly descendants in the second or third generation, or by the later immigrant himself. Their traditions are often exaggerated or confused, but a statement of the name of a specific county or locality of birth or residence in the old country often can be relied upon as evidence of origin, except in some cases when the place name is that of a port of embarkation. Such place names should be suspect, if given as tradition. A less well-known name of a place of origin may be forgotten in favor of a well-known port city from which the emigrant sailed.

Many local histories and church publications include copies of tombstone inscriptions. In numerous cases the place of birth or origin is named. Scharf's History of Western Maryland lists many such records of Irish settlers. Another source, Some Early Georgia Epitaphs, offers nearly one-hundred named places of Irish birth or origin. Likewise, there are published Abstracts of Wills of Chatham County, Georgia, which furnish notable examples of many cases wherein the Irish place of origin of the testator, or residence of a close relative, is named. These abstracts of wills illustrate the importance of locating the published or unpublished wills of all immigrants.

A thorough search of pertinent American genealogical source materials for the records of any immigrant will largely contribute to future success in Irish research. The results will help to direct the choice of records to be examined in Ireland and, on the whole, time and expense will eventually be saved.
